

I'll keep this short and sweet - there are already too many ways that the government has to creep into our private lives for no apparent reason. Adding yet another way to do this and making it so easy to do is sure to come to no good end. To quote an old cliché, "Power corrupts; and absolute power corrupts absolutely." There is good reason to keep all the due process in place before our government is allowed to spy on its citizens. This proposed measure will surely result in that due process being short circuited or avoided all together.
